

Salutes to the Struggle of the Peasants

The decision of the Central government to repeal the three anti-peasant acts is a stepping stone to the victory of people.

Though we have to wait for the repeal of these acts legally in the parliament, the announcement of the government can be considered as a victory to the people. This should inspire and prepare the people to wage much more struggles in future.

The importance of this victory lies in the relentless struggle of the peasants against the acts of the Central government until it decided to withdraw them. In this one year long struggle the peasants had undergone a great suffering.

In this long struggle the peasantry patiently and non-violently faced lot of difficulties. It fought against the atrocities like Lakhimpuri Kheri. This victory has a great prominence in the existing social conditions of the country.

The peasants still have to agitate along with people for the withdrawal of the Electricity Amendment Bill and for the minimum supporting price for their crops.

We request the people to fight with the same inspiration for the withdrawal of the proposal of privatization of Visakha Steel Plant.

It is necessary to understand that the main reason for all kinds of difficulties being faced by different sections of people is the exploitative policies of imperialists and their corporate agents. So people have to struggle for the solution of this basic problem with much more unity.
