

Betting Cocks... Winning Horses...

In the 2024 elections, the strategy and the counter strategies of the bourgeoisie parties revolve around betting cocks. They don't want people who worked from the bottom up to expand the image of their party, who organised events and spent their money on road shows and meetings of their top leaders. They are looking for betting cocks. The bourgeoisie parties are chasing or billionaire betting cocks living abroad.

The policy of high command of all the bourgeoisie parties is the same. Sadly, the state of all the leaders is pathetic, who worked hard at the ground level and in their respective constituencies.

Opposition parties are seeking candidates on the basis of a similar caste or similar social and economic status in the constituency. Due to these trails, there are protests, resentments, and defections taking place in their own parties. Even those who are known to have a comprehensive personality with feudal highhandedness are jumping into other parties for a seat. They are ready to jump off the ship, which they have sailed for many years.

Those who have been called Democrats and Progressives till today are upholding and joining the reactionary, bourgeoisie communal parties tomorrow. This is what we call bourgeois political culture. In an exploitative system, the policies of all the exploitative classes are the same. According to the reservations for the SC, ST, BC, and women quotas, any party should field only those candidates in the respective reserved category.

These reserved candidates may have an inherent love for their creed and a psychological inclination to be their well-wisher. But their services are benefiting the bourgeoisie, and ruling classes. They have done nothing for their class or creed, but they have secured a permanent foothold for the bourgeoisie oligarchs and their ideology. The bourgeois parties are competing to field candidates from the backward castes and scheduled castes and tribes.

Madam Nirmalaji, the woman who served the bourgeoisie classes for a decade as finance minister in the BJP central government, is clueless from where to contest. In a recent media summit, answering questions about her contest for the election, she said, "I do not have the kind of money required to contest... It is also going to be a question of various other winnability criteria that they use... My salary, my earnings, my savings are mine and not the Consolidated Fund of India...". Isn't financial affordability the actual reason?

GVL Narasimha Rao, the BJP national leader, is not contesting the elections due to lack of funds is making the rounds all over. All these suggest that the betting cocks and winning horses are none other than the ones who have enormous money bags to win seats.

Till yesterday, TDP Rajya Sabha members resigned and joined the BJP. They say there is no need to oppose any of the policies, which infers there is no difference in the policies of bourgeois political parties. So, what difference does it make? They are all birds of the same nest. That's why they are able to prevail with the same bourgeoisie ethics.

Therefore, the bourgeoisie oligarchy ethics and culture persuade for betting cocks and winning horses and pacifies, saying – You remain a servant, a faithful pawn investing all your energies and wealth. Will I not take care of you? There won't be any other foolishness other than to expect protection of constitutional virtues from the exploited classes.

An unethical person is worse than a monkey, which rightly fits all the bourgeoisie parties.
